The Editors of WPA invite contributions that are appropriate to the interests and concerns of those who administer writing programs in American and Canadian colleges and universities. Articles on teaching writing or research in composition are acceptable only if they deal with the relationship of these activities to program administration.

Article length (flexible), 2,-4,000 words. Authors should submit two copies and retain a copy for their own files. Materials should be suitably documented using the MLA Handbook (second edition), although as much reference as possible should be included within the text. Annotated bibliographies accompanying articles are encouraged, as well as any other apparatus which might make material more conceptually and practically valuable to working writing program administrators. The editors reserve the right to edit manuscripts accepted for publication to conform with the style of the journal. Article deadlines: fall-winter issue, January 15; spring issue, September 15. Relevant announcements are also acceptable. Announcement deadlines: fall-winter issue, October 1; spring issue, January 5. Address contributions and editorial correspondence to Christine Hult, Editor, WPA, Department of English, Utah State University, Logan, Utah 84322-3200.

Subscription with membership in the Council of Writing Program Administrators: $15/year ($16.50 outside U.S.). Institutional subscription: $20 ($21.50 outside U.S.). Single copies, $5 ($5.50 outside U.S.). Make check or money order payable to Council of Writing Program Administrators. Address subscription and membership correspondence to Don Daiker, Secretary-Treasurer, WPA, Department of English, Miami University, Oxford, Ohio 45056.

Address advertising inquiries to Sally Barr Reagan, Managing Editor, WPA, English Department, University of Missouri, St. Louis, St. Louis, MO 63121-4499.

Current Theories... English Texts

The Responsible Reader

Edited by LINDA ZIFF, The Johns Hopkins University

A composition reader that, through its reader-response approach, helps students learn to read actively and responsibly and to better understand the choices they themselves have as writers. The 56 readings include selections by writers from Plato to the present. Although ranging widely in subject and in purpose, all are written in the first person, a point of view that enhances the writer-reader connection. Paperbound. 488 pages (probable).

Subject and Strategy

A RHETORIC READER
Fourth Edition

Edited by PAUL ESCHHOLZ and ALFRED ROSA, both of the University of Vermont

A collection of 69 readings offering 55 professional essays; 11 student essays, each followed by an interview with the student writer; and three short stories. The readings are arranged in 10 rhetorical sections, each with an introduction that defines the rhetorical strategy and provides guidelines for writing an essay using that strategy. New to this edition are 32 of the essays; the three short stories; and a completely revised argumentation section containing a series of pro-and-con debates. Paperbound. 600 pages (probable).

Text Book

AN INTRODUCTION TO LITERARY LANGUAGE

ROBERT SCHOLES, Brown University
NANCY R. COMLEY, Queens College, CUNY
GREGORY L. ULMER, University of Florida

An innovative text for writing about literature courses. Based on the most current literary theory, the book gives students a chance to explore literature from the inside as well as the outside, through assignments in the revision or transformation of literary texts. The discussion questions and writing activities that follow the readings draw on students' creative imaginations and analytical skills.

Paperbound. 320 pages (probable).

Exciting Approaches... from St. Martin's Press!

Rhetoric in the Classical Tradition

WINIFRED BRYAN HORNER, Texas Christian University

A comprehensive rhetoric organized around the five classical canons of invention, arrangement, style, memory, and presentation. The text extends the lessons of the ancient rhetoricians to suit the needs of today's students, including especially detailed coverage of argumentative writing. It has been carefully written at the undergraduate level, with abundant examples and exercises and a glossary of rhetorical terms. 512 pages.

Good Writing

A GUIDE AND SOURCEBOOK
FOR WRITING ACROSS THE CURRICULUM

LINDA SIMON, Harvard University

A cross-curricular composition text containing 56 writing assignments—18 in the humanities, 21 in the social sciences, and 17 in the sciences—contributed by instructors in different disciplines. In addition to the assignments, the book stresses essentials of good writing common to all disciplines, including purpose and audience, proper use of sources, making inferences and defining a thesis, selecting and documenting sources, and revising. Paperbound. 416 pages. Just Published

How Writing Works LEARNING AND USING THE PROCESSES

FRANCIS A. HUBBARD, Marquette University

A brief rhetoric structured around 55 student writing activities. Designed to help students gain insight into the writing process, the text encourages active learning and emphasizes the importance of acquiring a flexible set of skills and approaches that can be applied to many different situations. Ample opportunities for collaborative writing are provided. Paperbound. 272 pages (probable). February 1988
