

composition STUDIES

Call for Submissions: Composition Studies seeks contributions for upcoming issues. The oldest independent periodical in the field, Composition Studies is a peer-reviewed academic journal dedicated to the range of professional practices associated with rhetoric and composition: teaching college writing; theorizing rhetoric and composing; administering writing related programs; preparing the field's future teacher-scholars. We welcome work that doesn't fit neatly elsewhere. We publish articles, course designs, book reviews, interviews, and beginning with our fall 2013 issue, short pieces on "composing with" a variety of partners (materials, others, feelings, physical conditions, nonhuman actants, environments, etc.). For submission guidelines, please visit <http://www.uc.edu/journals/composition-studies/submissions/overview.html>.