Guide for Authors

_WPA: Writing Program Administration_ publishes empirical and theoretical research on issues in writing program administration. We publish a wide range of research in various formats, research that not only helps both titled and untitled administrators of writing programs do their jobs, but also helps our discipline advance academically, institutionally, and nationally.

Possible topics of interest include:

- writing faculty professional development
- writing program creation and design
- uses for national learning outcomes and statements that impact writing programs
- classroom research studies
- labor conditions: material, practical, fiscal
- WAC/WID/WC/CAC (or other sites of communication/writing in academic settings)
- writing centers and writing center studies
- teaching writing with electronic texts (multimodality) and teaching in digital spaces
- theory, practice, and philosophy of writing program administration
- outreach and advocacy
- curriculum development
- writing program assessment
- WPA history and historical work
- national and regional trends in education and their impact on WPA work
- issues of professional advancement and writing program administration
- diversity and WPA work
- writing programs in a variety of educational locations (SLACs, HBCUs, two-year colleges, Hispanic schools, non-traditional schools, dual credit or concurrent enrollment programs, prison writing programs)
- interdisciplinary work that informs WPA practices

This list is meant to be suggestive, not exhaustive. Contributions must be appropriate to the interests and concerns of the journal and its readership. The editors welcome empirical research (quantitative as well as qualitative), historical research, and theoretical, essayistic, and practical pieces.

Submission Guidelines

Please check the _WPA_ website for complete submissions guidelines and to download the required coversheet. In general, submissions should:

- be a maximum 7,500 words;
- be styled according to either the _MLA Handbook_ (8th edition) or the _Publication Manual of the American Psychological Association_ (7th edition), as appropriate to the nature of your research;
• include an abstract (maximum 200 words);
• contain no identifying information;
• be submitted as a .doc or .docx format file; and
• use tables, notes, figures, and appendices sparingly and judiciously.
Submissions that do not follow these guidelines or that are missing the cover page will be returned to authors before review.

Reviews

WPA: Writing Program Administration publishes both review essays of multiple books and reviews of individual books related to writing programs and their administration. If you are interested in reviewing texts or recommending books for possible review, please contact the book review editor at wpabookreviews@gmail.com.

Announcements and Calls

Relevant announcements and calls for papers may be published as space permits. Announcements should not exceed 500 words, and calls for proposals or participation should not exceed 1,000 words. Submission deadlines in calls should be no sooner than January 1 for the fall issue and June 1 for the spring issue. Please email your calls and announcements to wpaeditors@gmail.com and include the text in both the body of the message and as a .doc or .docx attachment.

Correspondence

Correspondence relating to the journal, submissions, or editorial issues should be sent to wpaeditors@gmail.com.

Subscriptions

WPA: Writing Program Administration is published twice per year—fall and spring—by the Council of Writing Program Administrators. Members of the council receive a subscription to the journal and access to the WPA archives as part of their membership. Join the council at http://wpacouncil.org. Introduction

Black Lives Matter and Anti-Racist Projects in Writing Program Administration ............................................. 12
Sheila Carter-Tod and Jennifer Sano-Franchini

We are two mid-career women of color academics, one of us African American, one Asian American, who are also experienced writing program administrators—one of us of a first year writing program, one of a professional writing program.

Centering Black Perspectives in Anti-Racist Writing Program Administration

Writing Program Administration “For Us, By Us”: Two HBCU WPAs Testify ......................................................... 23
David F. Green, Jr. and Michelle Bachelor Robinson

We are cisgender, Black, Critical Race scholars who serve as WPAs as well as tenured, tenure-track faculty in the English Departments at prominent HBCUs.

So You Think You’re Ready to Build New Social Justice Initiatives?: Intentional and Coalitional Pro-Black Programmatic and Organizational Leadership in Writing Studies ............................................................... 29
Natasha N. Jones, Laura Gonzales, and Angela M. Haas

We are pro-Black women administrators of technical writing programs, committees, and organizations—a Black cisgender woman associate professor, a Latina assistant professor, and a first generation college graduate with White and Indigenous heritages.
Flourishing as Anti-Racist Praxis: “An Uncompromised Commitment” to Black Writing Tutors ................................................ 36
Zandra L. Jordan

I am a Black cisgender senior writing program administrator at a predominantly white private R1 university, the first person of color to direct the institution’s writing and speaking center. I am also a womanist theologian and bring that ethic and epistemic framework to my role.

What James Baldwin Taught Me About WPA Work ...................... 41
Trent M. Kays

I am a white, queer, first-generation college graduate who is a tenure-track assistant professor and writing program administrator at a public research-intensive university in the South.

Am I The Problem? ........................................................................ 46
James Eubanks

I am a black, cisgender PhD student at a majority-white R1 university in the deep south. Anti-Racist Leadership and Representation

Why So Few of US: Addressing Larger Issues of Systemic Exclusions That Limit the Numbers of Black Writing Program Administrators .. 49
Sheila Carter-Tod

I am a cisgender, able-bodied African American associate professor. After previously being a WPA at a large R1 PWI, I am currently transiting into a WPA position at a small PWI liberal arts college. I am keenly aware of my positionality as an African American female, and thus continually teach and conduct research as a means of social, racial and intellectual disruption.

The Promise and Perils of a Disciplinary and Organizational Pipeline... 56
Al Harahap

I am an Asian Islander immigrant who has lived and experienced education systems across Asia, Australia, and North America, non-native English speaker, contingent faculty at a doctoral research institution in the US South, doing various institutional and organizational administration, research, service, and teaching.

The Push for the 1974 Statement . . . Once Again......................... 63
Octavio Pimentel

Chicano full professor. As a past fieldworker and proud of my cultural identity, I commonly address social justice issues in my teaching and research in composition and technical communication.
White Supremacists and Urgent Agency: Memories from a Writing Program Administrator .................................................68
Stephen Monroe
I am a cisgender, white assistant professor of writing and rhetoric and a writing and speech program administrator.

Anti-Racist Programmatic and Professional Development

Programmatic Approaches to Antiracist Writing Program Policy ..........71
Tyler S. Branson and James Chase Sanchez
We are two tenure-track assistant professors at two different types of schools. The lead author, a white, junior WPA, works at a mid-size retinol institution in Ohio, and the second-author, who is Chicanx, works at an elite liberal arts college in New England.

A WPA Reflects on Assessing Black Women’s Writing during Intersectional Pandemics .................................................. 77
Michelle Bachelor Robinson
I am cis-gender, Black, feminist, first generation college graduate, who attended all PWIs from grammar school to graduate school. I now serve as a tenure-track faculty member in the English Department at an HBCU for women, where I direct the Comprehensive Writing Program with a hybrid WAC/WID design.

Beyond Crisis Moments: Mediating Instructor-Student Conflict through Anti-Racist Practice ........................................ 82
Amy J. Wan and Christopher John Williams
We work together as writing program administrators at a majority-minority public college. One is a 2nd generation Asian American mid-career academic, educated in US public schools from K to PhD, and one is a Black early-career WPA from Trinidad and Tobago, formerly an international student and adjunct at Ivy League institutions.

Racism in the Margins .................................................................85
Gabriel Morrison and Kathleen Tonry
We are two white writing center administrators at a large public primarily-white institution. Gabriel is a cisgender man and a graduate student, and Kathleen is a cisgender female faculty member.
Countering Equivocation: The Moves Used to Thwart Anti-Racism Work

Joe Cirio and Heather McGovern

We are an early-career, Asian American academic on the tenure-track and a mid-career white woman academic with experience as a writing program administrator, respectively.

“I’m Just Following the Policy”: The Last Line of Defense for “Standard English”

Bradley Smith

I am a white man, with tenure at a Minority Serving Institution. I have served in the role of WPA for first-year writing for five years.

Anti-Racist Curricular Work

Anti-Racism Across the Curriculum: Practicing an Integrated Approach to WAC and Writing Center Faculty Development

Rebecca Hallman Martini and Travis Webster

We are two white administrators with several years of experience leading writing centers and writing across the curriculum programs. Rebecca is a pre-tenure woman; Travis is a pre-tenure queer man.

Do Something!: Forging Constellations of Curricular, Co-Curricular, and Community Opportunities for Anti-Racist Writing Pedagogies at Bates College in Lewiston, Maine

Lucy Del Col, Ana Fowler, Sabrina Mohamed, Alex Onuoha, Sarah (Raph) Raphael, Emily Tamkin, Celia Tolan, Cherrysse Ulsa, and Stephanie Wade

Our team includes students, writing tutors, alum, and a writing program administrator who come to this work from a range of positions, including Black, Afro-Caribbean, Asian, Asian American, Arab American, Jewish American, and white and share a commitment to community engagement, antiracism, and language justice.

Collaborating Toward an Anti-Racist Writing Curriculum

Katherine Fredlund and Angela Morris

We are two white women academics currently working at the University of Memphis. Katie, an associate professor, has directed the First-Year Writing program since 2016, and Angela, a PhD Candidate in the Writing, Rhetoric, and Technical Communication program, served as the graduate assistant director from fall 2019—spring 2021.
Confronting the Comp Classroom: Implementing Anti-Racist Pedagogy and Navigating Opposition .......................... 121
Daniel Summerhill, Kelly Medina-López, and Sam Robinson

We are Black and Latinx Indigenous assistant professors and a white associate professor and department chair who collaborated to re-imagine the first-year composition program in our department.

Telling It Like It Is: A Narrative Account of Designing a Race and Ethnicity Requirement at a PWI in the Middle of Black Lives Matter ........................................................... 128
M. O’Brien and Cynthia Pengilly

We are two early-career scholar-teachers with disabling chronic health conditions; Dr. Pengilly is a cisgender Black woman who is co-director of the Online Technical Writing program, and Dr. O’Brien is a nonbinary multiracial Tamil person who coordinates the Language and Literature Program at CWU.

Recursive Interventions: A Coalitional Approach to Anti-Racist Pedagogy at Middle Tennessee State University ....................... 132
Erica M. Stone and Erica Cirillo-McCarthy

We are two cisgender, white women who work in coalition at a regional comprehensive university in the Southeast. As early-career writing program administrators with significant privilege, we center inclusive and anti-racist pedagogies, practices, processes, and policies in our administrative work in first-year writing and the writing center.

Anti-Racist Classroom Practices

Teaching Anti-Racist Reading Practices in First-Year Writing .......... 138
Felicita Arzu Carmichael

I am a Black Garifuna woman from Belize, Central America. As an early-career academic on the tenure-track, I center race, technology, place-embodiments, and inclusion in my scholarship, teaching, and service.

Your Contract Grading Ain’t It ...................................................... 145
Sherri Craig

I am a Black woman. Although I am early in my career, I am feared by the historically white institutions in which I work and create diverse, equitable, inclusive, and accessible spaces. I am enough.
Narratives from a Writing Center: Actively Engaging in the Process of Anti-Racism ......................................................... 147
Sonya Barrera Eddy, Katherine Bridgman, J. Ione Matthews, Randee M. Schmitt, and Autumn Brooke Crane

A Tejana director of Integrated Reading and Writing; a white Writing Center Director; a white educator and tutor; a Hispanic, white-passing, first-generation graduate student and writing tutor; and a white, female writing center tutor who is a first-generation college student with a BS in Psychology discuss the process of antiracism.

Reimagining the Possibilities: A Narrative Account of a Journey Toward Anti-Racist Administration ............................................. 155
Melvin Beavers

I am a Black, cis gender, queer assistant professor of rhetoric and composition, and the first-year writing director at a four-year doctoral granting metropolitan institution in the south.

Interventions Foregrounding and Honoring Black Language in FYC from a HBCU/PBI Perspective...................................................... 158
Kathleen Turner Ledgerwood

I am a white, queer, disabled woman working as a writing program administrator and classroom faculty on the tenure track at an historically Black university where the students are predominantly Black.

Anti-Racist Collaborations, Resources, and Support

Aligning Practice with Belief: Bringing Anti-Racist Information Literacy and Writing Instruction to an HSI Lutheran University ...... 162
Meghan Kwast, Jolivette Mecenas, and Yvonne Wilber

We are a queer Filipinx associate professor who has directed first-year writing programs at public and private HSIs, a white librarian who works as a liaison with the English Department, and a white librarian who heads undergraduate instruction, who collaborated with one another to bring antiracist curriculum to first year writing.

Collaboration at the Center: Anti-Racist Writing Program Architecture at California State University Dominguez Hills ............ 169
Mara Lee Grayson and Siskanna Naynaha

We are a Xicanx woman (Siskanna) and a white Ashkenazi Jewish woman (Mara Lee), both of whom have experience in writing program administration.
Curating a Place to Begin: Creating Resources That Center the Work of Black and Indigenous Scholars and Other Scholars of Color .......... 176
Megan McIntyre

I am a white, first-generation woman academic teaching at a newly designated Hispanic-serving institution with experience leading first-year writing programs at multiple institutions of varying size and scope.

How to Respond When You’re BIPOC and Your Organization Is Called Out for Racism ........................................... 181
Patti Poblete

I am Filipina Canadian, currently acting as a WPA and professor at a public liberal arts institution that serves a large number of first-generation students. I come from an immigrant community and a fundamentalist culture and some days none of these things seem to construct me, but some days they really, really do.

Afterword

“Troubling the Boundaries” of Anti-Racism: The Clarity of Black Radical Visions amid Racial Erasure ........................................... 185
Carmen Kynard

I am a cisgender, able-bodied Black Feminist educator, agitator, and dreamer who currently lives and works as a professor, former WPA, and descendent of Enslaved Africans on the lands of the Wichita and Affiliated Tribes.
